

MORRISON

1 Samuel¹ Morrison Senior, son of John, was born at Stewartstown Tyrone County Ulster 5 January 1701 New Style. In stature he was a very large and powerful man, more than six feet in height and weighing over two hundred and fifty pounds. He had seen service in the border wars between the native Irish and the Scotch. In his declining years he was fond of relating to his grandchildren tales of these struggles in the homeland which exacted such a fearful toll in his father's family. Perhaps the most colorful of these was that story of how, when attacked alone by seven Irishmen with his only weapon a pitchfork, he had saved his life by thrusting the fork into his foremost assailant and throwing him over a stonewall; the others witnessing this feat lost heart, deserted their wounded comrade and fled.

Samuel married Mercy Mayse who was born 1716, a native of Stewartstown and a daughter of Scotch parents. They sailed in the "Sally of Coleraine" in 1740 for America. It is presumed they arrived through the port of Philadelphia, for we find that his brother Ephraim settled in this neighborhood. Samuel moved into Bucks county Pennsylvania and resided there until the close of the Revolution.

Sometime after the war, he moved with his family, many of whom were then married, to the west branch of the Susquehanna river and settled near the mouth of Pine Creek; then Northumberland county, now Lycoming. At this location he spent the remainder of his life. He died there 5 May 1801; his wife preceded him in death, dying the 30th of October 1798. They were both buried in the old Pine Creek cemetery in Watson township Lycoming county. It is thought that the flood year of 1889 which washed away so much of this ground, either destroyed their sites or removed the markers.

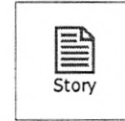

Emigration

"From 'History of the Morrison Family', by J. P. Sage found in the Ohio State Library, Columbus, Ohio, the following information is given: Samuel Morrison of Bucks and Lycoming Co., Penn. Samuel, son of John Morrison, and his brother Ephriam with Samuel's seven sons and three daughters came to Bucks County, Pennsylvania, about 1740. Samuel's children were: Anna b. 1739 in Ulster buried at sea; Margaret b. 1743, Bucks Co., Penn.; James b. 1/4/1744 Bucks Co., Penn.; William b. 1747 Bucks Co., Penn.; Ephriam b. 1749 Bucks Co.; Rachel b. 1751 Bucks Co., Penn.; John b. 1753 Bucks Co., Penn.; Samuel b. 1/7/56 Bucks Co., Penn.; Ephriam and Jonah, twins, b. 6/5/1759 Bucks Co., Penn."//He and his wife emigrated to America in 1740 with their children. Anna died on the voyage. They arrived in Philadelphia and settled in Buck's county, Pa. after the Revolution. Later, Samuel and all of his family, several of whom were Mariners, moved to the west bank of the Susquehanna River, near the mouth of Pine Creek.

Samuel David Morrison

Born Tyrone County, Ireland, January 5th 1701. Married Merce Mayse. Came to America in 1740 on sailing ship "Sally of Coleraine" Located in Bucks County, PA Died in Lycoming County May 5, 1801. Buried in Pine County Cemetery.

Samuel and his wife emigrated to America in 1740 on the ship "Sally of Coleraine." From the "History of the Morrison Family" by J.P. Sage found in the Ohio State Library, Columbus, Ohio the following information is given: Samuel, son of John Morrison and his brother Ephraim, with Samuel's seven sons and three daughters came to Bucks County, Pennsylvania. Later, Samuel and all of his family, several of whom were Mariners, moved to the west bank of the Susquehanna River, near the mouth of Pine Creek. Samuel was over 6 feet tall, weighed over 250 pounds, stout, dark hair (not black) blue eyes, fair skin. Samuel managed his own farm until he was over 90 years old and kept house for himself after his wife's death until he passed on.

His will made about 1801 five days before he was one hundred years old, devising as follows: To Margaret young, Five Pounds or (13.33) To James Morrison, Ten Pounds or (26.66) To Heirs of John Morrison Eight Pounds or (21.33) To William Morrison, the farm on which I now live and the farm adjoining the above (about 200 acres and worth at the time about $25 per acre) To Samuel Morrison, One Dollar To my son Ephraim Morrison, One Dollar. To my son Jonah Morrison, the interest of one hundred pounds yearly, during his natural life. (Of the above none of the heirs got one cent except William)
