The following scraps, which throw light upon life in Elizabeth before the Revolution, are taken at random from old records and newspapers :

May, 1666, a servant, "Robert Graij," runs away from Luke Watson, to whom he had bound himself for three years, and is advertised for as follows, the advertisement being entitled a "Hue and Cry" :

"His name Robert graij an Englishman bornd, about 20 yeares of age, a lustij bodied portely fellow.

* * * It is supposed that he is in company with one Ruderic Powell, a pittifull fellow, who hath also absented himselfe and runn away."

A whaling company was organized February 15
