Contents: Biography

William Goodhue was born in 1612/13, probably in Kent, England. William married in England to the widow Margery Watson of Deptford, Kent, England. William is said to have been a Weaver, Yeoman, and a Merchant. Margery was already the mother of 3 children, but this compiler has no other information about their earlier life.

William & Margery Watson Goodhue emigrated to America in 1635, and settled in Ipswich MA, which became their home. William Goodhue became a "Proprietor" in 1635. William was made a "Freeman" on 7 Dec 1636. William & Margery became members of the 1st Congregational Church of Ipswich, and later William became a "deacon", and was known as "Deacon William Goodhue".

Deacon William & Margery Watson Goodhue had 3 children born to them and reared in Ipswich MA. Deacon William bought the "Commonage" of John Newman in 1649 and owned other land. William worked in various civil capacities such as "Moderator", "Selectman", and "Representative" to the General Court.

On 24 Sep 1688, Deacon William summoned his son Joseph Goodhue from his home in Chebacco province of Ipswich, to live in Deacon William's home in Ipswich MA, and to "act on his behalf". Deacon William then retired to live with his other son William in Chebacco Province of Ipswich MA. However, Deacon William finally remarried again to Remember Fisk of Wenham MA. They were married in Ipswich, MA.

Deacon William Goodhue died in Chebacco province of Ipswich MA in 1699/1700. His wife, Remember Fisk Goodhue survived Deacon William, and died on 16 Feb 1701/02.
