History or lineage of one branch of a race of people by the name of WARREN who emigrated from England to Normandy, a district in the north of France to America locating in different parts of the New England Colonies, one branch locating in Massachusetts, and one in New Hampshire; History supposes them to be of one kindred. The one locating in Massachusetts had a son named JOSEPH WARREN, also the one locating in New Hampshire had a son named JOSEPH. General JOSEPH WARREN, of Massachusetts lost his life at the battle of Bunker Hill during the War of the Revolution, to whose memory now stands a monument on Warren Street, Boston, Mass.

JOSEPH WARREN, of New Hampshire was also a soldier during the same war. He had three sons and three daughters married in New Hampshire; one marrying a MR. SPARKS the other a MR. WADLY, both located in New Hampshire. JOSEPH with the remainder of his family, consisting of three sons, SAMUEL, JOSEPH and JOHN, and one daughter named ROXY, removed to the State of New York, locating in Wyoming County near the town of Hermitage. He was a farmer by occupation; he died of old age and was buried at Hermitage. His sons SAMUEL and JOSEPH were farmers; his son JOHN left the country soon after their arrival in Wyoming County and no tidings as yet have been had of him. SAMUEL and JOSEPH married sisters, SAMUEL marrying REBECCA, and JOSEPH marrying PARNY GEORGE, daughters of MR. ZIBA GEORGE. ROXY married MR. BENJAMIN SILLIMAN.

(The above was a biography written by his grandson, Oliver J Warren. Oliver didn't get all of his information correct. Specifically, he didn't get the father of the GEORGE sisters correct. They were the daughter of Isaac George.)
