Osmund Bullock of Edburgefild, Berkshire, England

He was living and "of age" in 1166 when first mentioned. In 1190 Osmund Bullock presented John, rector of Barkham, to the living of the Chapel of Edbergefild (Arborfield) which was at this time under Sunning (Sunning).

The Bullock family is thought to have been of Saxon origin. Osmund Bullock of Edburgefild, Berkshire, England was probably the first member of the family to bear the name of Bullock.

He was living in 1222 during the reign of King Henry III and is mentioned twice as "Ricardus Bullock de Edburgefild" in the "Testa de Nevill" where he appears as holding land under the Bishop of Sarum (Salisbury) as his feudal superior. The Salisbury diocesan records also relate that during a visitation in 1222 by the then Dean of Salisbury there was found "a certain aged preist of Reading" at the home of Richard Bulloc of Erbergefild. This preist was unable to quote accurately a single text from either the Old or Neww Testament and was subsequently inhibited from further ministratation in the Chapel there.

Notes for ROBERT BULLOCK, SR.:

ROBERT BULLOCK 'LORD OF ERBURGFELD'

Robert was the successor of Gilbert and is known to have been trustee for the Crown (Edward II) of certain land in Barkham. The land was supposed to have orginally belonged to John Mautravers and was forfeited by him to the King, along with other possessions. Agnes (Anne) de Neville claimed to have been wrongly dispossessed of this land by Mautravers. She was successful in her claim and Robert Bullock was authorized to make the land over to her in 1335. Robert Bullock is referred to as "Lord of Erburghfeld" in 1331 and this is the earliest indication that the Bullock family held the Lordship of the Manor of Arborfield. In 1341 Robert settled the manor on his son Robert and Joan Drokensford, his wife.

(This info is from the "Memoirs of the Family of Bullock" written by Rev. Llewellyn C. W. Bullock and is found on the Miller & Bullock Family Tree).

He married ANNE NEVILL Abt. 1342 in Arborfield, Berkshire, England, daughter of THOMAS DENEVILLE. She was born Abt. 1316 in Barkham, Berkshire, England, and died in England.

Notes for GILBERT BULLOCK:

GILBERT BULLOCK OF HERBURGHFIELD

Gilbert Bullock was a son of Robert, Lord of Arborfield. He brought home a wife from the neighbouring hamlet of Barkham, namely Anne (or Agnes) Nevill who was daughter and heir of Thomas Nevill of Barkham. They were married in 1330. This was the same Anne to whom Robert Bullock was to make over land in 1335. It is believed that through this marriage the Bullocks acquired the Lordship of Barkham, although they seemed to have interests there long before this. In 1341 the manor of Arborfield it appears, was settled on Gilbert's brother Robert.

In 1343 Gilbert Bullock is known to have presented John de Insuia as new rector of Barkham Church.

(Above is from the "Memoirs of the Family Bullock" written by Rev. Llewellyn C. W. Bullock and found on the Miller Bullock Family Tree).

Twice during the reign of Richard II in 1385 and 1392, Robert was Sheriff for the counties of Berkshire and Oxfordshire, while in 1394 he was the Commission of Peace for Oxfordshire. In 1388 it is on record that "Robert Bullock of Eberfeld, late Sheriff of Oxford", received a pardon from the King for the escape of a prisoner from Oxford Gaol. A few years previously in 1382 his name occurs as witness to a deed in which he is described as "Lord of Erburghfeld and Hurst", just half a century after the title "Lord of Erburghfeld" had been similarly applied to his grandfather. It is believed that Robert the Sheriff married Margaret Foxley, daughter of Sr. John Foxley of Bray and Barnshill, Knight of the Shire for Berks. Robert is thought to have died in 1405.

GILBERT BULLOCK OF ABERFIELD, ESQ.

Gilbert Bullock was the eldest son of Robert and Eleanor and he became Lord of the two Manors of Arborfield and Barkham. Gilbert married Margaret, daughter of Sr. William Norreys of Bray and Yattendon, Berks. (Knight of the Body to King Edward IV). Margaret was aunt to Sr. Henry Norris (later usher of the Black Rod and Esquire of the Body to Henry VIII), who was tried and executed in 1536 for his alleged romantic relations with Queen Anne Boleyn.

Gilbert and Margaret had at least six children, their eldest son and heir being Thomas. Some sources state that Gilbert died in 1500, however others believe that he presented Robert Townsend to the rectory of Barkham in 1504 and that he had died by 1514. Margaret, his wife, outlived him and married again to Sir John Langford of Bradfield.

From the "Memories of the Family of Bullock" written by Rev. Llewelyn C. W. Bullock, and found on the Miller & Bullock Family Tree.

Notes for THOMAS BULLOCK:

THOMAS BULLOCK OF ARBERFIELD, ESQ.

Thomas Bullock was the eldest son and heir of Gilbert and Margaret. He was Lord of the manors of Arborfield and Barkham by 1514 and was married to Alice, a daughter of John Kingsmill of Hampshire (who was a Justice of the Court of Common Place in the reign of Henry VIII). It is believed that Thomas and Alice had seven sons and six daughters. Thomas later married again to Agnes, who survived him. Thomas was appointed a Gentleman Usher Extraordinary to the King (Henry VIII) in 1516 and his name appears on the Royal Household list. A few years later he was appointed as one of the Commissioners for the County of Berkshire to collect the subsidy which was levied by Henry VIII in 1544. Thomas Bullock was returned among the Nobles and Gentry of England who supplied men and horses for the war with France. His contingent consisted of "archers eight, and billmen thirteen". At this time a change was made in the family crest and it is not improbable that the "seven bills" were granted to him in allusion to this martial aid to his sovereign in time of war. By his will of 1557, Thomas made a number of bequests which included "to Barkham Church, a pair of white satin vestments embroidered with a red velvet cross" to Arborfield Church "all such ornaments vestments and coopes all which I bought of Thomas Champyon". For the relief of the poore of Barkham. a direction that Barkham Court should be leased to his widow, Agnes, and the poor of Swallowfield parish also benefited under his will.

WILLIAM BULLOCK OF STRATFIELD MORTIMER, BERKSHIRE, ENGLAND.

William Bullock of Stratfield, Mortimer, Berkshire, son of Thomas and Alice, and uncle to Thomas, Last of Arborfield. At some time between 1530 - 1540 (?) William Bullock of Stratfield Mortimer married his third wife, Elizabeth Bellett, thought to have been the daughter of John Bellet of Moreton, Cheshire. This marriage was destined to restore the fortunes of the Bullock family. In the latter part of the 16th century, William Bullock's eldest son, John, took up his residence at the Manor House of Mulsham, in Great Wigborough and this established the Essex branch of the family which for at least three centuries was the chief representative of the old Arborfield stock.

From the "Memoirs of the Family of Bullock" written by Rev. Llewelyn C. W. Bullock and the Family Tree of Miller and Bullock.

Note---he was married 3 times before dying at age 24 dates and born dates for some of his children were after he died. (I question the dates???? and believe he died much later as he susposely had children born 1562, 1565, and 1568 by his third wife).
