

Brooklyn Union, 27 August 1875

CHURCH.

The funeral of Walter Leech, who died Monday of typhoid fever, took place yesterday afternoon from St. Peter's P. E. Church, on State street, and was largely attended. Deceased was a son of ex-Alderman John Leech, and brother of Richard B. Leech. He was a member of the Tabernacle Young People's Association, and had at their entertainments distinguished himself as an elocutionist and talented extempore speaker.
